College for Lifelong Learning to close its doors

Students will have to look elsewhere to complete degree work

By MICHAEL DANIELS
The College for Lifetime Learning at Sunday River Ski Resort — a program that provides an opportunity for people with full-time winter jobs to study toward associate's or bachelor's degrees — will close at the end of this year.

The Sunday River CLL program began in 2000, as a collaboration between the ski resort and the University of New Hampshire's CLL.

The local program, or "administrative center," was one of ten in UNH-CLL, and the only one not located in New Hampshire.

Low enrollment and a tight budget led to the decision to shut down the Newry program, according to a statement from CLL President Karol LaCroix.

"Enrollments have not met the expectations that were in place when the program was first initiated," LaCroix wrote. "Thus, the college can no longer afford to continue offering courses and programs at the Sunday River site."

"While this decision is no doubt disappointing," LaCroix wrote, "it is necessary given the financial and other resource constraints that the college is facing."

High hopes

The CLL website describes the local program as follows:

"Imagine getting paid for something you love to do while you earn a college degree. You can, if you take advantage of the unique partnership between CLL and Sunday River Ski Resort in Bethel, Maine.

"Together we're offering a unique college program combining a quality academic experience, employment in an exciting and growing industry, and a healthy outdoor lifestyle."

"Now you can attend college and gain valuable work experience at one of America's premier ski resorts. You'll work at Sunday River throughout the ski season and attend CLL classes during the remainder of the year right at the mountain. All year you'll enjoy an active, outdoor lifestyle including skiing, snowboarding, mountain biking, hiking, or just exploring one of the most beautiful settings in New England."

At the time the program opened, Sunday River's then managing director Chip Seaman said he hoped it would prove to be a powerful recruiting tool.

In June of 2003, the program had its first graduate, when Sunday River employee Lisa Jacques received an associate's degree in business studies.

Sunday River paid 50 percent of a student's out-of-pocket expenses, upon successful completion of a course, according to skiway spokesperson Susan Duplessis.

"We are obviously disappointed that College for Life-

Supper serves up old-time songs and smiles

The Bethel Historical Society held an Antiquarian Supper Monday, inspired by gatherings of the same name that took place throughout New England in the mid-1800s. The original practice grew out of a longing for earlier days and customs, said Randy Bennett, curator of collections at BHS. People attending the suppers would dress in old-fashioned clothes, bring odd or old relics to display, share stories from the past and enjoy a meal of traditional food. The events were often driven by a local historical interest in gathering information. In Bethel, the Bethel Farmer's Club put on such suppers from 1855 to 1857, with Dr. Nathaniel Tuckerman True the driving force. About 30 people attended the 2005 revival of the supper. They concluded with the singing of old-favorite songs, accompanied by Mary Valentine on piano. See page 9 for more on the event.

Vermont cancer survivor enlists in local girl's battle against lymphoma

By ALISON ALOISIO

Telstar junior Tasha Vascik, who was diagnosed last month with Hodgkin's lymphoma, is fighting the disease through chemotherapy and radiation treatment. And she's getting some help financing her fight from a young Vermont woman who survived leukemia.

Vascik has a 90 percent chance of recovering from the lymphoma, according to her mother, Kelly. The teen started weekly chemotherapy at the Maine Children's Cancer Program in Scarborough in late March.

The Tuesday treatments

leave her feeling ill for a couple of days, and she is only able to attend classes at Telstar on Thursdays and Fridays.

When she finishes 12 weeks of chemo, it's on to three weeks of radiation treatments, expected to conclude in late July. That will give Tasha one-month breather before starting her senior year.

Her mother said Tasha is holding up well, despite the treatment's side effects.

"She's very tough, and I'm very proud of her," said Kelly. "And my spirits are good. I look at my daughter and say, 'What else can I do?'"

Fundraisers

The family may have plenty of determination, but they do not have health insurance. There has already been one fundraising event to help them out, a dance, and friends have also placed donation containers at various locations.

Another effort, a May 28 brunch at the Mundt-Allen American Legion Post, is being organized by Vermonter Brandi Brooks Jagemann.

Jagemann is the daughter of Kathy-Jo Farren of West Bethel. Jagemann was diagnosed

Community conference aims to help grow our creative economy

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Organizers of Saturday's Community Conference on "Our Creative Community" know the event is competing with school vacations and fine spring weather, but they still hope to bring together as many as 70 people to network and discuss ways to grow the Bethel area's "creative economy."

The conference, they believe, will be especially relevant for a wide variety of people engaged in creative endeavors, such as musicians, artists, designers, techies, craftspeople, healers, gardeners and growers, as well as local business owners and members of the general public who are concerned with the area's economic future.

This will be Bethel's fifth community conference since 1981. Together, the conferences (held also in 1987, 1990 and 1997) are generally credited with helping to launch several currently active community initiatives, including the Mahoosuc Arts Council and Land Trust, the Bethel Conservation Commission and Pathway Committee.

This time around, the short-term goal is "a few nuggets," said Lucia Colombaro, who has been active in the organizing effort — the "nuggets" being kernels of creative and entrepreneurial energy that over time can "grow organically" toward a more vibrant local creative economy.

The concept of the "creative economy" — and its implications for the long-term economic health of a region — was the subject of a statewide conference held last spring in Augusta.

Gov. John Baldacci described the creative economy as "a catalyst for the creation of new jobs in Maine."

Organizers of the local conference say the creative econo-

Rebel diamond previews: Softball Baseball

Telstar, the two-time defending conference champion, returns a good nucleus of players to defend their title this year, according to coach Jim Lunney, who provided the following overview.

Pitchers Jillian Kimball and Jessie Farrington, both juniors, will return to anchor the mound and shortstop position. The pair are quality pitchers and can also field their positions very well.

Liz Rosenberg (junior) returns as well as a three-year starter at the catcher's position. An excellent defensive catcher and leader, Rosenberg is also one of the team's clutch hitters.

Juniors Tiffany Jordan (second base) and Kayla Mills (centerfield) will be counted on for their defensive and offensive contributions.

Jordan's range at second base complements Farrington's range well and solidifies the middle of the Rebel infield. Mills' speed and good arm make her a valuable contributor.

The Telstar varsity baseball team has spent most of its preseason traveling from the gym to away games. Now that the Rebels' home field has dried out, coach Bob Remington hopes the team can spend some time there.

"We've settled in to who will play where. Now we just need time to practice," said Remington.

The squad is evenly divided between seniors and underclassmen.

Seniors with previous varsity experience include captains Terry Collins (pitcher/first base) and Ryan Savage (outfield/catcher/pitcher); Kevin Zinchuk (second base); Josh Longway (shortstop/pitcher); Mike Brown (leftfield) and August Reiss (centerfield). Newcomer senior Ross Parker (outfield) joins the team this season.

Juniors include varsity veteran Nathan Walker (utility/pitcher); Blake Conrad (third base); Stephen Scotti (outfield); Ryan Cross (outfield/

STANDS BY 'SHENANIGANS'

To the Editor:

There is little to be gained by bickering publicly over the actions of a committee of regional citizens; however, when one uses words like "deeply flawed," "antics" and "shenanigans" when describing committee activity, he'd better be prepared to justify them. Several activities over the past year seem to serve.

The first formal request for approval of a hangar construction proposal by a group that has kept planes at the airport was made on Jan. 21, 2004. At the Feb. 18, 2004, meeting those wishing to build hangars asked for expeditious treatment of their request as they hoped to seek Planning Board approval and build during the summer of 2004. The Board of Selectmen received a lease to consider on April 4, 2005.

There were apparently eleven meetings of the Authority held during the fifteen months between initial request and presentation of a lease for consideration. I received no minutes for May or July of 2004, and two regularly scheduled meetings couldn't be conducted for lack of a quorum at meeting time. During six of the eleven meetings held the same member of the Authority was absent. During two of the meetings that were held one member left before meeting end reducing the number of voting members below the number needed for a quorum. After leaving a meeting before its end on Sept. 15, 2004, John Head wrote a very personal letter to the Bethel Citizen. In part, he described the Airport Authority as "a borderline dysfunctional entity." He went on to suggest "that all six members should tender their resignations to the selectmen..."

Fifteen months to respond to a request for permission to develop is too long; the process involving the Airport Authority and others was flawed. When committee members depart meetings in process leaving those behind without a quorum, they're employing political antics. When members absent themselves from meetings rendering regularly scheduled meetings impotent, they're engaging in political shenanigans. I stand by my words.

The Board of Selectmen has been concerned about Airport Authority issues for some time. We will have recommended changes for the voters to consider at the Town Meeting in June.

'LADY PIRATES' NEED SPONSORS

To the Editor:

It is that time of the school year for a spring musical production at Telstar. This year the staff and students are working on "The Lady Pirates of Captain Bree," a story with reversed roles as the gals are the pirates and they capture an unsuspecting ship of mostly men.

The purpose of this letter is to ask you to support this very worthy activity as, unfortunately, there is not money in the school budget to completely fund all that is needed for such a production. We are very sensitive to the frequency with which businesses are solicited for causes, thus we would prefer not to do likewise were it not for the level and sincerity of our needs. If you had the chance to see "Ducktails and Bobbysox" or "Ax of Murder" then you have seen the quality experiences our students have received because of generous previous donors. The resulting sense of pride, accomplishment, teamwork and just plain fun remains with them forever. At present we are in need of set materials, several costumes, and props.

Our fundraiser this year remains the same — we are selling acknowledgements and advertising space in the show program as follows: $10 to $25 donation, Crow's Nest Sponsor; $50, Deck Hand Sponsor (includes 11/8 page ad space); $100, First Mate Sponsor (includes 1/4 page ad space); $250, Captain's Sponsor (includes 1/2 page ad space).

Please consider being a sponsor of performing arts at Telstar. Any generous donation will be appreciated more than you know. Please make check payable to: MSAD44/THS and please write "Spring Musical" on the memo line and send to SAD44, 284 Walkers Mills Road, Bethel, ME 04217. Also indicate how you would like your name or company name to appear in the program. Thank you for your consideration.

COMMUNITY SERVICE SUGGESTIONS SOUGHT

To the Editor:

Recently, the SAD44 Board of Directors voted to establish a new community service requirement for the Telstar Regional High School Class of 2005. To meet this requirement, this year's seniors need to complete 13 hours of community service projects by June 6. The purpose of this requirement is twofold: first, it will allow the seniors to meet the number of days they are required by law to attend; second, it will allow the seniors to give back to the community that has been so supportive of them through the years.

It is my hope and the hope of the senior class officers to create a central community service project that will allow many members of the class to work together on a project that will benefit their community in some way. For those who cannot participate in this activity, however, there will also be other potential projects available. Teachers and students from around the district have been working on finding community service projects that may be appropriate.

If you know of a community service project one or more members of the Class of 2005 might complete, please call the high school at 824-2136 and let us know about it. We are maintaining a clearinghouse of projects and would appreciate any information anyone could provide.

On behalf of Telstar Regional High School and the Class of 2005, thank you for the help and support you've given your children through the years.

NO HELP CREATING JOBS HERE

To the Editor:

The three hurricanes that devastated the east coast of Florida have left Pool & Spa Supply Co., Inc. without electricity and running water since August of 2004. This means we have only one working phone line and are without computers, lights, and all the other things necessary for effective operation of a company that sells pool, spa, plumbing, irrigation and water feature parts and equipment online and in Florida, in a small retail outlet.

The residence my daughters and I rented was also severely damaged by the storms and we were forced to vacate the day before Thanksgiving for repairs to begin. Those repairs were originally expected to take six months; as the result of construction worker shortages from the massive need from extreme damage over the widespread area, the house will probably not be inhabitable for another year. There continues to be a severe shortage of housing in the Daytona Beach area, particularly for those with disabilities like myself.

My children and I arrived in our home state of Maine the first of February. My daughters went to stay with their father, a resident of Bethel. I checked into Linnell Motel in Rumford. I investigated a known business for sale in Mexico, which was quickly ruled out, and sought out the "economic and community development" agencies and authorities in Mexico, Rumford, and Bethel to see what other opportunities existed for both moving my existing business to the area and also the possibility of combining it with an existing business available for sale.

When I first contacted the Bethel Town Office I was referred to the Chamber of Commerce, which was not any more helpful. Last week, I again contacted the Bethel Town Office specifically asking to speak with the town manager. I had specific questions for Mr. Cole.

I wanted to know what areas of Bethel I would be prohibited for residing and operating my Internet sales business. I explained that my disabilities made this the most effective situation, as I do not drive. I explained that my business does not involve manufacturing, produce chemicals or other wastes and in fact most of our orders are shipped directly from our supplier. I explained to Mr. Cole that initially the operations would be handled by myself and my high-school-age daughter, though based on our previous experience, we would need to hire within a year.

Mr. Cole was anything but helpful. He suggested I find a location and sign a lease and then seek approval from the town. He stated that Bethel does not have zoning such as Florida that limits activities and breaks the community down in zones such as the I1 (light industrial) we were previously located in. I1 allows my retail and Internet business but prohibits residential occupancy. Mr. Cole's only "suggestions" were to stay out of shoreland zoning and floodplain.

Still considering Bethel as a prospective site for my business, I picked up a copy of the April 14 Bethel Citizen and Z & Z Variety. I was stunned to read the front-page article, "Bethel Station's failure to produce jobs again raises question of grant payback." In reading this article, it appears to me that Bethel was to create 200 permanent jobs in order or pay back the $400,000 in grant funding it received for the project ten years ago; having failed to do so it is now being called on to repay the grant. The article suggests that Bethel Station has vacancies for business and residence, so why isn't the town manager working with people like myself considering moving a business to Bethel that will create new jobs and fulfill the grant requirements?

If there is someone in Bethel town government or not who would be interested in discussing my moving my family and business there, please contact me at the Linnell Motel (207) 364-4511. We aren't looking for "tax breaks," we are looking for a place to call home and create jobs.

GIRLS ASSOCIATION THANKS

To the Editor:

We'd like to thank everyone who came out for the Western Maine Girls Association's first annual fundraiser. It was a wonderfully successful evening. The film "Killing Us Softly 3," generously sponsored by Scott and Jenna Smith of Stone Mountain Mortgage, was shown.

This film is part of our lending library that we hope to grow and make available to the community.

Many people made this evening happen including the wizards of technology Peter Kuzyk and Ray Geiger; donors to the silent auction: Pinnacle Woodworks, Blue Moon Midwives, True North Adventureware, Village Antiques, Therapeutic Massage, Sarah Shepley, Brie Weisman, Jessica Nichols, Hidden Brook Farm, Arla Patch, Nanette Cramton, Betsey Foster and Kevin Heffernan. Also, a special thank you to Debi Irons of Art Moves (and her dance troop) who choreographed an incredible dance specifically for the evening. Lastly, thank you to our wonderful board members who made delicious treats for the evening.

For information or if anyone would like to contribute to the next addition to our film library "Tough Guise," contact us at PO Box 1246, Bethel, ME 04217.

'LA VIE EN ROSE'

To the Editor:

You never know how hard it is to put on a show until you are a part of it all.

This is my first year in the Art Moves Dance Troupe. It's been a great year so far. All the performances have been amazing, and now I have a chance to teach as well. I love the idea of being part of something bigger than just me and getting to do what I love the most — dance. But I have found that being a part of this group isn't all fun and games. There is work involved, especially in putting on the troupe show. In years past, I have always watched the troupe show, but I have never really seen what goes on behind scenes to make it happen. The troupe does more than dressing up, reserving a space, practicing, and performing the show.

This year, the show from the Art Moves Dance Troupe is called "La Vie En Rose," which roughly translated is "looking at life through rose-colored glasses," or being optimistic. Getting ready for the show starts with deciding who does the press releases and when they should be sent to newspapers. We also have to get a photographer to come in and take pictures of the troupe. We have to get sponsors to donate money toward scholarships, and take more pictures for the programs and postcards. Actually practicing for the show and deciding on costumes is a lot harder than it may seem. And that's only the tasks that we have done or begun so far. Everyone has their responsibilities when putting on a show, and there is plenty to be done.

This is my first year being a part of the mayhem that involves getting ready to do a performance. It won't be my last. Truthfully, this whole organization thing came as a surprise to me. But shows do take a lot of work, and that is one thing that I will remember for later years as a great experience.

The Art Moves Dance Troupe will be performing "La Vie En Rose" on Friday, May 6, at the Oxford Hills Comprehensive High School auditorium. The show will start at 7:30 p.m., and tickets are sold at Books-n-Things and a Pick-A-Lily. Tickets cost $5 in advance and $7 at the door.

Two key themes of Saturday's discussions, she said will be developing resources needed to support such an economy, and involving more young people in creative endeavors.

"We'll be paying close attention to what resources people really want," she said.

Saturday's conference will take place at Telstar from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. (check-in from 9:30).

A brief introduction will be followed, via ITV, by comments from John Rohman, the governor's chair of the state-wide creative economy initiative.

There is no charge for participation, but a donation of $5 is suggested.

Pre-registration is not required, but a phone call as soon as possible to SAD44 Adult Ed, 824-2780, will greatly aid in planning.

Art for public trails proposed

BETHEL — The Mahoosuc Arts Council is considering applying for grant funding to enable it to place pieces of sculpture along public trails, including the Bethel Station pathway, the Mt. Will River Trail and possibly the Mahoosuc Land Trust. Monday, the initiative was presented by MAC Executive Director Vicki Rackliffe to the Bethel Board of Selectmen, which was receptive to the possibility. Rackliffe said the plan was to employ Maine artists for the project. Final sign-off on any proposed sculpture would be in the hands of the selectmen. If public reaction is favorable, Rackliffe said, the project might be extended to include future walkways developed by the newly formed Trails Committee.

Compost bins available

GREENWOOD — Residents of Greenwood and Woodstock can now purchase $80-value compost bins for $25 apiece. Fred Henderson, chairman of the Greenwood Board of Selectmen said the towns' joint solid waste board has purchased 40 of the bins through the state, which buys them in bulk. They are expected to arrive here by the end of June, Henderson said. He encouraged residents to compost their garbage, rather than put it in with trash. For every 10 pounds that is kept out of the waste stream, he said, the towns save 45 cents. And, he said, "the compost is real good for the garden." For more information, or to order a bin call the Greenwood Town Office, 875-2773, or Henderson, 874-3636.

Groups receive grassroots grants

MONTPELIER, VT. — The New England Grassroots environment Fund (NEGEF) has announced that two western Maine groups are among nine community groups in the state that will receive grants from the New England Grassroots Environment Fund. The Fund supports a variety of local initiatives to improve environmental quality across northern New England. The two western Maine groups are Fryeburg Aquifer Resource Committee, for $2,500 to present at public meetings the results of an independent aquifer study to determine the sustainable amount of water that can be drawn on an annual basis in order to protect the town's water supply; and the Greater Lovell Land Trust, for $2,500 to work with the Kezar Lake Watershed Association to raise funds for legal work, expert testimony regarding a proposed development, to purchase a patrol boat, and to support the creation of a coalition of five local land trusts to coordinate land conservation on a regional basis.

Spots still open for 21st bike trek

AUGUSTA — On Friday, June 17, an expected 2,000 cyclists will set off from Sunday River Ski Resort in the American Lung Association of Maine's (ALA-ME) 21st annual Trek Across Maine-Sunday River to the Sea. Supported by more than 300 volunteers, this year's crop of cyclists will cover 180 miles over the three-day ride, culminating at Snow Marine Park, Rockland on Sunday, June 19. "We have 1,700 participants signed up and ready to go, but we have room to accommodate a further 500 more cyclists, so we're really hoping to give people a heads up in time to get training and join what is always an amazing and exhilarating experience," said Bob Verrill, ALA-ME's Trek Manager. "The Trek is so much more than a bike ride. The individuals and businesses who participate in the Trek as riders, sponsors and volunteers, are committed to helping the Lung Association accomplish its work of improving the lives of all Maine citizens." The bicycle trek is a 3-day, 180-mile ride, with overnight stops at the University of Maine at Farmington and Colby College in Waterville. The event ends at Snow Marine Park in Rockland on Father's Day. The 2005 Trek Across Maine is expected to raise over $1.2 million to support the Lung Association's efforts to improve indoor and outdoor air quality, reduce Maine's high smoking rate, provide asthma management education, asthma research and many other initiatives to improve the lung health of people statewide. For more information about the American Lung Association of Maine or to register for the Trek Across Maine, please visit the Lung Association's website, www.maine-lung.org or call (800) 499-5864.

Manufactured homes show

OXFORD — Oxford manufactured housing manufacturers and retailers in Oxford will open the doors to more than 80 fully furnished homes and three manufacturing facilities at the 2005 Oxford Hills Manufactured Housing Show, billed as the largest display of Housing in New England. The three-day event will be held April 29, 30 and May 1. This will be the fourth such show. Past shows have drawn crowds numbering in the thousands. The event is the result of a partnership between the Oxford Hills Chamber of Commerce and 10 competitors in the local manufactured housing industry. This group of 10, all located within an eight-mile radius on Routes 26 and 121 in Oxford and South Paris, represents the core of the industry in New England, according to the OHCC. Over the past four years Oxford has seen investment in new manufacturing facilities with state-of-the-art building technology and existing manufacturers that have entered into expansion projects. In addition, the surrounding support industry is flourishing with new retailers, installers, transporters, service technicians and others. Direct industry employment in the Oxford industry has seen a 25 percent growth since the show's inception in 2002 and now tops 600, according to the OHCC.

Turkey permits for all who applied

AUGUSTA — Turkey hunters who thought they missed out this year were given a second chance last week, when Gov. John Baldacci signed into law a bill that gave turkey permits to all turkey hunters who applied for one, but were not selected in the February lottery. "This law is a testament to the success of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife's reintroduction efforts," said Baldacci. "This is a great day for all hunters in the state," said Roland D. Martin, commissioner, Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. "This bill tells everyone that wild turkeys have returned to Maine." The additional permits were made possible by LD 1456, sponsored by state Sen. Bruce Bryant (D-Dixfield), and Reps. Mark Bryant (D-Gray) and David Trahan (R-Waldoboro). Originally 20,300 hunters were selected in the lottery to hunt turkeys. LD 1456 gives the 3,649 unlucky hunters who were not selected a turkey permit. In all, 23,951 hunters applied for a permit. Starting in 2006, there will be no lottery, and all who apply will get a permit. Hunters who were not selected in the February lottery will receive a letter notifying them of their eligibility, and designating whether they are able to hunt during the A or B season. These hunters must pay for their permit at the Augusta headquarters of the Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife, by returning their letter with a check or money order, or by paying for their permit online at www.maine-fishwildlife.com. Turkey permit fees of $13 for a resident or $43 for a nonresident. Hunters must also possess a big game hunting license to hunt turkeys.

Seniors Kara Jacques (out-field) and Sarah Farnum (third base) will provide solid defense and leadership.

Junior Chelsea Cozzolino will take over at first base and should be a solid addition to the defense. She will be counted on for offense support.

Sophomore Joseline Belanger, freshman Josie Reiss and Abby Hutchins will be fighting for a starting position.

All three are good athletes and should add to both defense and offense.

Juniors Stephanie Tripp and Heather Gionet will provide depth, with offensive support from Gionet and defensive support from Tripp.

Sophomore Tonie Morin will again provide depth at the pitching position, and has shown good improvement over the first couple of scrimmages this year.

Several freshmen and sophomores, led by Sarah Field, Bailey Davis, Kayla Damon and Megan Smith will be counted on to fill in if needed, and will continue to gain experience at the junior varsity level.

The team strengths will be pitching and defense — it was solid a year ago, and appears to be strong again.

The team speed is very good, and the Rebels plan on being as aggressive as ever on the base paths.

Jay and Georges Valley will be two of the teams challenging Telstar for the MVC championship this spring.

pitcher); and newcomer Kyle Kuvaja (second base).

Sophomores Allen Buck (catcher) and Louis Thornton round out the team.

Telstar has the best pitcher in the Mountain Valley Conference in Terry Collins, Remington said, and Longway should be a good number two pitcher.

"The question will be our number three pitcher, and our hitting," he said.

The delay in getting out on the field has left hitters in need of outdoor batting practice, said Remington.

He said he hopes and expects the Rebel bats to warm up with the weather.

long Learning program has not succeeded to the degree necessary for it to continue at Sunday River," Duplessis said. "We still believe in it as a concept and are proud of our involvement with its development, and applaud our staff members that achieved their educational goals through the program. As a business, we recognize that the university needed to make the tough decision to end the program at this time."

In addition to Sunday River employees, a small number of students from the larger community also took courses through the program.

Students currently studying toward a degree will now need to take further courses either in Gorham or Conway, N.H. or enroll in one of the online courses and programs offered by CLL, LaCroix said.

"Our academic advisors from the CLL Gorham Office will make arrangements to meet with Sunday River students individually and provide them with assistance in fulfilling their requirements," LaCroix said.

'I would never have done this before.'

Since CLL's inception here, Deb Piccirillo of Greenwood has been the program coordinator. She offered the following reflections on the experience:

"Sunday River has been very generous to their employees and CLL itself.

"Initially we recruited mostly out-of-state young adults looking to Learn/Earn/Ski their way through college. With these first three-year groups of students we dealt with about a 50 percent dropout rate between winter and spring semester. Students commented that this was "real" college and too much work, or they found out Sunday River expected them to work when scheduled, and not simply ski.

"The rest either transferred to another residential-based college after their freshman year, or started their second year with us. It was hard to keep those students motivated to take eight classes a year to get their associate's in two years.

"Working through the ski season and taking one or two classes was tough. Most, if they stayed the second year, left needing eight to 12 credit hours to complete their associate's and were accepted into a baccalaureate program somewhere.

"It was always great to watch these students who thought college wasn't their thing, do well and strive for their four-year degree.

"Many of those students have stopped by while skiing the following year to tell me how well they were doing in college.

"In the last two years, my out-of-state population declined (as did marketing money for that endeavor) but my local adult population grew. I presently have 10-12 community members working through their program.

"It was wonderful to see the community members accessing college course work close to home. We could offer students small class size and instructors in the classroom to answer questions. Many of these adults were leery to sign up for ITV or online coursework.

"I hope these students continue to take courses. It will open doors for them just as it has already opened new areas of thought, perspective, and understanding in their field of study.

"What I will miss is watching the student growth. The community members and young adults I have helped get past their freshman year grow so much. Their confidence builds, their willingness to tackle community problems or become a more active member, their desire to seek multiple avenues of success, completion, or mediation.

"When a student states, 'I would have never done this before!' it makes my day."

with Acute Lymphoblastic leukemia in February of 2003. At the time she was pregnant with her daughter, Jaeden.

Jagemann underwent treatment for more than two years. She has been very active in a Vermont fundraising effort known as the "Light the Night" walk campaign. The event raises funds for the Leukemia & Lymphoma Society.

Jagemann said the organization is one of the nation's top-rated voluntary health agencies, providing financial support for cancer research, education, advocacy, and patient services.

"My family, friends and I came together last year and formed our team, 'Jaeden's Joggers,' named after my daughter, who was my inspiration throughout my two-plus years of treatment," said Jagemann. "As a team, we were able to raise over $2,000 for the 2004 Light The Night Walk. This year we are hoping to double that number."

"I had been planning a Light The Night benefit dinner to host here in my home state of Vermont, but when I heard that a young woman in Bethel was diagnosed with Hodgkin's lymphoma, I knew I had to have the event in Bethel."

Jaeden's Joggers now plans to divide the proceeds from the brunch between The Leukemia & Lymphoma Society and the Vascik family.

Farren, said Kelly, "is one of my very best friends. Brandi was very concerned, and wanted to do something."

The next thing she knew, said Kelly, Brandi was asking her permission to include Tasha in the fundraiser.

The brunch will take place from 10:30 a.m. to 1 p.m. at the Legion, located on Vernon Street in Bethel.

Admission is $15 for adults, $5 for children under 12, and free for children under the age of 3.

Local vendors are pledging food donations as well as gift certificates and other items for a silent auction. There will also be an opportunity to make direct donations specifically to Tasha and her family.

after a group came together to discuss the lack of support and services for victims of sexual assault and abuse.

In 1982 a survey of area doctors, psychologists and mental health providers showed that during the previous year 77 victims of rape or incest had reported the assault to them, but not to authorities, according to R.E.A.C.H.

Last year, R.E.A.C.H. staff provided support to a total of 160 people, and volunteers gave more than 17,000 hours of their time.

The staff works with local hospital emergency departments and law enforcement agencies to improve the response to sexual assault within the medical and legal systems.

Sexual assault victims who choose to receive medical attention and/or have forensic evidence collected after an assault have Certified Sexual Assault Nurse Examiners available to them. The SANE program provides high-quality care and evidence collection and provides support for the survivor.

Services provided by R.E.A.C.H. are offered free of charge.

Ruth Gilbert is a patient at Stephens Memorial Hospital.

Cindy Freeman Tibbetts of Oregon and her son, Stephen, of California were in Bethel for Hope Tibbetts' 80th birthday celebration.

Rachel McKnight of Jericho, Vt., spent a couple days with Ginny Keniston and attended swimming class and quilting on Tuesday.

Rosalie Holiday has returned from a week's visit with her daughter, Carla Starbird and family in Roanoke, Va.

Lee and Al Barth have been visiting in Mexico.
Bob and Ginny Keniston had dinner with Peter and Stacy Keniston in Turner on Wednesday and attended the Elementary Chorus Concert where their granddaughter, Sarah, was a soloist.

Red Hat Ladies will meet for dinner on April 22 at The Rooster's Roadhouse.

The Senior Citizens Club meeting on Wednesday was a huge success with a large attendance. The Banjo Boys gave an hour concert that was superb.

Hi and Mary Lou Berry spent Saturday, the 9th of April through Monday, the 11th, in Walpole and Middleborough, Mass., with Mary Lou's daughters, granddaughters, and great-grandchildren, her stepson, Robert Cole, and wife Joanne, and foster daughter, Diane O'Leary. A great time was had by all and the weather was super. You know you are back in Maine when on waking up on Tuesday morning, the 12th, it was snowing and a moose was walking up the driveway.

Spring has not yet arrived at Birch Point. The Kennneys and the Strattons woke up to a less desirable 12 degrees on Friday, April 15; to make matters worse, it was income tax day. The temperature rose to 50 degrees by noon but the income tax remained the same.

The lake is still ice packed. Wagers on "ice-out" are being placed all over town. The Dead Cambridge is open up as far as the Tucker camp. A deer was seen skipping along the edge of the ice and open water. On-lookers watched anxiously, praying the ice would not give way, dropping the animal into the icy water with not much hope of rescue. "Lucky Buck" got away Scot free.

Sue Nelson has had a great bird week. She reports seeing bald eagles around the river. Two Canada geese set up housekeeping on the Williamson's property. Many ducks re-clustered on the open water of the river. A flock of juncos visited her birdfeeder. Sue is still rescuing birds that fly into the glass windows of her house. This week, a hairy woodpecker tried to commit suicide, hitting the house and knocking himself for a loop. She placed the injured bird in her "Recovery Basket" until he regained his composure. Soon he took off and was back in business pecking trees.

A hermit thrush met his demise hitting the side of Sue's house. She lost this patient, but you can't win them all.

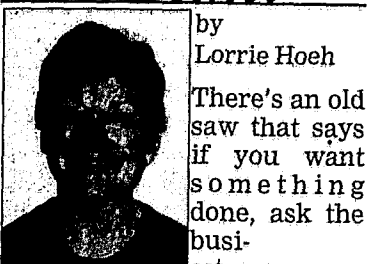

Evelyn Kenney has some great snapshots of the destruction of the East "B" Hill Road. I understand that it will be repaired as soon as possible.

We have experienced very high winds and cool temperature here in Florida. Rip tides and very rough surf are being experienced. The long, beautiful beach is closed to the public temporarily. Last week surfers reported sharks in the area. The sea turtles are about to visit the dunes for their spring egg laying, but the surf conditions will probably delay them.

Lucille and Earl Largesse spent the winter in New Mexico and were not too fond of it. Evidently the rest of the United States experienced cold, windy weather during the winter. Complaints from "winter weary" people will disappear soon. The black flies will then rule the North Country.

The "Bird of the Week" is the emperor penguin who may have to leave the sunny Antarctic to cool off above Grafton Notch.

West Bethel

by Lorrie Hoeh
There's an old saw that says if you want something done, ask the busiest person you know. In this neighborhood, that would probably be Nancy Grover. On Sunday, the 17th, Pleasant Valley Grange recognized Nancy's countless hours of volunteer work in the community by giving her their Community Service Award. Nancy has given of herself to the West Bethel Church, the District Exchange, SAD44, and the American Legion, to name a few. This is National Grange Month, and this award is given every year during this time to recognize a non-Grange community member for his or her service. Congratulations to Nancy for a well-deserved honor.

Notes on Your Neighbors
More than eighteen years ago, one of the first persons we met as we explored Bethel for a place to retire was Jane Hosterman, who was, then as now, volunteering at the Bethel Historical Society. I remember her saying that she and Dick had moved here in 1978 from Weston, Mass., and never looked back, nor regretted a minute of it.

In the years since, Jane has been my mentor, role model, and friend. Widowed now, she still maintains her sunny outlook and her busy involvement in the town, her church, the Grange, her garden, and her charming home.

Dick Hosterman was born in Ohio. He enlisted in the Navy during WWII and was assigned after boot camp to a minesweeper in Boston. Jane, who was born in Des Moines, Iowa, was a student in Boston and frequently visited an aunt in Weston, Mass. One day Jane's aunt signed up to offer wartime hospitality to two sailors and invited Jane to bring a friend and have dinner at her home with the two sailors. One of those sailors was Dick — and the rest is history. Their wedding was in 1944, and then came two children — Richard, Jr., and Sue Anne — and later a grandson.

Back along Dick and Jane didn't know Maine at all. However, one of Jane's nurse colleagues hailed from Andover. One summer day, this friend called from Andover and told Jane of a lovely campground at the foot of Richardson Lake, knowing that the Hostermans liked to camp, and suggested that they try it out. In Jane's words, "The rest is a love story."

After camping for a season or two, they leased some land on Richardson from Seven Islands Land Co., bought a boat, and over three years managed to put up a log camp, about 11 feet x 16 feet. They cut down the trees, peeled the bark, hoisted the logs, all without really knowing what they were doing. But the camp took shape, and it served its purpose quite well. At one point Richard, Jr., asked why they hadn't done this when they were younger, and he and his sister were still at home to enjoy camping with them. The answer, of course, was that a young family like theirs couldn't afford it. (A familiar story.)

In the winter, starved for a Maine "fix," Jane and Dick would come up and stay in motels. It wasn't long before they began looking for a place to live year-round. In 1975 they found what they were looking for and bought the "Newton Homestead" on the Flat Road. They had a couple of years to work on the house while they vacationed there. Finally, in 1978, Dick retired from his job as a firefighter in Weston, Mass., Jane retired from nursing, and they moved up permanently to West Bethel.

Those who have known them both will agree that it was Weston's loss and Bethel's gain. The Hostermans put down roots here and flourished, while serving the community in many ways and becoming valued members thereof. And Jane plans to stay, because she can't think of a place she'd rather be. More power to you, "Mom!"

Andover

What a beautiful weekend we had. A nice start to April vacation. Happy belated birthday to Zoey Perham and

Amy Jane Mahar.

A group of men from K of P Cabot Lodge of Andover were in Bangor on April 10 to compete against 16 other Maine Lodges at a bowling tournament. Andover men that were participating were: Freeman Farrington, Lorenzo Miller, Orville Meisner, Richard Sullivan, David White and Keith Farrington.

Pastor and Mrs. Steven Waite, Wytopilock are the parents of a son, Silas Steven, born on April 12. He joins three sisters, Sasha, Sierra, and Savannah.

Ten members of the East Andover Community Club met with Vickie Cuff on April 11. After a short business meeting a game was enjoyed. The members brought food and the sale was a big success.

Andrew Farrington, son of Keith and Janet Farrington, has received the Presidential Distinguished Scholar Award. Andrew is a member of the Andover Telstar Class of 2005. Sharon Farrington, her sister, Belinda Poor, and her mother, Gwen Briggs, left April 14 for a trip to Hawaii.

Mr. and Mrs. Daniel McCum, Gorham, N.H., were guests of the Swains on April 16.

Mr. and Mrs. Jeff Jolicœur and two children of Waterville; her mother, Mrs. David White; and her sister, Mrs. Barbara Kenney, were at Disney World in Florida last week.

At the April 12 meeting in Portland of the Maine Chapter of 1918 Club eight were made associate members. Paula Smith, wife of Vice President Bill Smith, Andover; Sonja Bernier, Westbrook, daughter of treasurer and Mrs. Robert Webb; Winnie Barker, Rumford Center, whose late mother, Freda Robinson, was a member; widows Mary-Jane Irish, Buxton; Edna Drown, sister of Secretary Mary Philbrick, Arundel; and Helen Stone, Auburn; widower Wilbur Black, Windham. Two members, Dot Chasse, Exeter, R.I., and Mavis O'Brien, Acton, Mass., who attend the meetings, were voted in as associate members at a previous time. The next meeting is May 10 in Portland.

T-ball will be starting up on May 9. It is for children ages 4 to 6 years old. If you haven't already signed up, you may show up at the Andover Elementary School at 3 p.m. It will go until 4:15.

Donnie Bailey is home recovering from recent back surgery.

Pastor Jane is home after her surgery and recuperation at Market Square.

Speedy recovery to you both.

Have a nice week.

Greenwood City

Brad Payne visited his daughter last week.

Ann, Brad and friends went out to dinner last Friday night. Brad went golfing with friend Brian Newell last Friday and again with Joek McCarthy last Saturday in Auburn.

Sorry, Ann, but I guess the season is here. Remember we could go 4-wheeling when he is gone.

Saturday David, Sally and Ann made dinner for their mom and dad. Then, in the afternoon Ken Bacon and wife visited Faye and Leonas Holt.

Ann and Molly, the dog, went for a walk and stopped to visit David and Andrea. They are the people that bought Aunt Clis' log cabin on the pond. It is good to see someone there and raking the leaves. Also, it is good to see that another Morgan has the sign that Steven Cogswell fixed up for Aunt Clis.

Gordon and Joan, when Rena is up to it, we will be there to see your new home and I will know what one it is with the Morgan sign out front. I am in hopes Rena will be back and feel up to writing next week.

Last week, my granddaughter waited to ask me a personal question. I knew if it had something to do with the birds and bees, I would tell her to ask her mom. But, she wanted to know if my oven was broken and I said no. Then, why have you not made us kids chocolate chip bars, she asked. So, I stopped everything I was doing and made them some. It was easier than talking about the birds and bees.

Remember to make memories with the family, because no one can take that away from you.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published by special arrangement with the Advertising Department

Back in the olden times, as my grandchildren like to call my childhood years, paregoric was the over-the-counter drug of choice. I remember getting it diluted with warm water for any stomach ailment. It was also rubbed on the gums for any tooth discomfort I may be suffering.

I don't think it cured anything. I think I just got such a buzz that I didn't mind what ever was ailing me. Everyone used paregoric back then; it was good stuff!

That couldn't be said for the cure for cold sufferers though. At least in my family we had Vicks Vapor Rub put wherever it was possible and if that didn't work there were mustard plasters for severe cases. Again, I'm not sure if any of that made you better, but I can tell you when the mustard plaster went on I sure pretended to get better pretty darn quick.

That was definitely a case of the cure being worse than the illness. If you never experienced the joys of a mustard plaster on your chest, consider yourself lucky. Never have I suffered through such burning or endured such an odor that close to my nose.

Well, that was then, this is now and there are over-the-counter and prescription drugs for every possible thing a person can suffer from. I don't imagine that any of them smell or burn like a mustard plaster and that's a good thing. However, modern medicine is not without a few unpleasant side effects too.

A few years ago I came down with a bad case of strep throat. The doctor put me on an antibiotic that came in a capsule so big it felt like razor blades going down my already raw throat. Then it gave me such a severe stomach ache I prayed for paregoric. The antibiotic did cure the strep throat, but I ended up with a yeast infection.

I've been noticing a lot of commercials on television for prescription drugs so the patient can pressure their doctors into what they think will make them better. If they listened to the commercials very carefully they might think twice before pushing their doctors into every drug they see on television.

Toward the end of the advertisements they tell you about the side effects. I've noticed that the speaker speeds up and lowers the voice at the same time. I guess this is the vocal equivalent of fine print.

However, there are pills for that too...

One particular drug for asthma sufferers sounds like it should be just what the doctor ordered, at least until you hear about the side effects. They include upper respiratory infections, cough, breathing difficulties and heart attack.

It's probably a small percentage of people who experience the side effects, but don't asthma sufferers already have upper respiratory infections and breathing difficulties without having to worry about having a heart attack too?

There is no question that the nebulizer helped to open the airways so Elijah could breathe, but it did little to help his exhaustion. One of the side effects was sleeplessness and sure enough, this sick child couldn't sleep at all. He could at least breathe better while he lay awake.

And speaking of sleep, there is a new prescription medicine available for those who toss and turn all night. It sounds like an insomnia's dream because the television commercial warns that the taker of this drug must be able to have at least 7 to 8 hours of undisturbed sleep time. That would imply that a really good night's sleep is in the offering.

One of the side effects is drowsiness, which to my way of thinking is exactly what I'd want in a sleeping pill. But, one of the other side effects is diarrhea. Maybe it's just me, but I would be a bit reluctant to take something that has the potential to put me into a deep sleep for 7 or 8 hours, out like a light, never knowing that I was being hit with a bad case of the backdoor trots until I woke up! The good news is that you'll sleep like a baby. The bad news is that you'd better wear a diaper like a baby.

There are a lot of new antidepressants on the market now that promise a better outlook on life. However, there are side effects there too. One is suicidal tendencies; not what I consider a good outlook on life. Another is a warning for men of the possible sexual side effects.

However, there are pills for that too, but not without a different type of side effects. One warning states if the desired result lasts more than four hours a visit to the doctor or emergency room is warranted. In a different publication I might elaborate on that a bit, but for now, I'll just leave it alone.

My whole point to begin with was what a long way medicine has come since the days of paregoric and mustard plasters. Great strides have been made to cure what ails you, and the way I see it, if the cures don't kill you, make you sick, cause a heart attack or stroke, then they may be just what the doctor ordered.

Gilead

It seems so nice to sit here in my office at home with the window open and enjoying the nice fresh spring air. The sun is warm and the flowers are beginning to appear in my gardens out front by the little pond. I think it is time to set up the lawn swing and get ready to enjoy this great weather. Before long the evenings will be warm enough to sit out for a while.

Steve McLain reported that he had phone calls from two of his sons, Joey and Stephen. Joey is still in Montana and Stephen is in Iraq. Joey said that all is going well there, and Stephen is beginning to count the days to May 19, when his tour will be up. He will be headed back to Oklahoma before going to his next assignment. Brad McLain stopped by to visit with his dad on Saturday.

Steve also had a call recently from Lewis and Earlene Clough, who used to own the little camp beside him. They are doing well, and I am happy to report that they keep up with the Gilead news by reading this column. Hello to Lewis and Earlene.

Congratulations to Nikki Tew on the birth of her daughter, Zowie Elizabeth, and to the proud grandparents, Richard and Sue Saunders. I think Sue can breathe a sigh of relief now.

I talked to Dan Cole today and he is home and doing well after his recent surgery. He hopes to be out and about soon and get the cemeteries ready for Memorial Day.

The Planning Board has been meeting and working on ordinances for the town of Gilead. They are holding public meetings so the residents of the town can read and understand these ordinances. I would like to urge concerned citizens of Gilead to attend these meetings. At some point, you, the residents of Gilead, will be asked to attend a Town Meeting to vote on these ordinances. You need to know what you are voting for and understand that if these ordinances are passed, there will be major changes in what your rights will be concerning what you can do with the property that you own in the town of Gilead. Please attend and be heard. The Planning Board needs to know what rules you feel are in the best interest of the town.

Planning Board

This is a reminder that the Special Meeting to discuss comments received during a Public Hearing on four draft ordinances and other Planning Board matters is this Thursday evening, April 21, at the Town Hall. There is a Public Hearing scheduled for Thursday, April 28, at the Town Hall at 7 p.m. They will discuss draft Floodplain Management, Building Regulations, Site Review and Road Design ordinances. Copies of this information are available at the Town Office along with additional information. As always, information regarding Planning Board meetings and Public Hearings is posted at the Town Hall, Town Office and Transfer Station.

Gilead Historical Society

The first lecture for the GHS is coming right up on April 30 at the Town Hall at 2 p.m. Howard Reiche and Hugh Chapman will give a short lecture on historical sites in Gilead. They plan on showing a few slides that will be on loan for the day from the Bethel Historical Society. We have heard from Robert and Joanne (Peabody) Stewart, Portland, and Robert and Judy (Daniels) Bishop, Yarmouth, and they hope to make it to the lecture. Peabody and Daniels are names from Gilead's past. They have been a great source of information for us by providing pictures and interesting facts. The newsletter should be out about the time this column is in the paper. Hopefully, this will encourage a few of the other members to attend when they receive the newsletter with the schedule of events. The GHS is in for a busy summer.

It has been a wonderful week weather wise. On Sunday it hit 68 degrees here. It has been warm and sunny most days, but waking up one morning to a powdered sugar frosting on the brown lawn was a surprise. Several miniature blue irises are in bloom but the snow did not hurt their delicate petals. I raked the wet, brown leaves off the flowerbeds to help the crocuses to warm up with the sun and bloom. I did have two purple and white ones greet me.

Walking around my property I checked other plants. The large, wild lilac bush doesn't even show a bud. I hope it didn't winter kill. There is no sign of life in the asparagus and green onion bed either. It must be too early.

On Sunday, April 24, the Rev. Jane Dwinell, the small church specialist, will be guest speaker at 9 a.m. at the West Paris Universalist Church. A workshop will follow the service. Jim Burke is organist.

Bruce and Flora Thayer visited with Vince and Beverly Stevens and Georgia Thayer. Vince Stevens was in New Gloucester for a baby shower for Josh and Tina Goodwin.

The front of the chimney in the living room was papered this week completing the living room. Last week, we had left that to last and when we touched the flue to paper around it black soot fell out. We quickly shut it up and I called the chimney cleaner. He came right away and cleaned the chimney and put in a cement-filled flue and cemented it in. He did a neat job with no mess. The girls came back and covered all with the paper. They also put two strips of paper on the bedroom, which had wrinkled and let go. So my papering is finished, thanks to good friends.

There is a saying about a one-armed paperhanger and I do understand what it means. My arm feels OK now but will never reach up so is useless for papering. I can still paint by using the left hand.

The cardinals are back and singing their mating call, so spring must be here. I hope they nest nearby as usual.

Last week, I made a new kind of pie for the paperhangers. I needed to use up the few berries I had left in the freezer, for it is nearly time to berry pick again, so strawberries, blackberries, and blueberries were mixed into one pie. It was good.

Buffy went out after I had swept the sand on the walk into a pile and rolled in it. When he rolls it means he is feeling good.

Gail Parent has returned home following a trip to China.

The moose

are on the move. There have been reports of moose being seen in the villages of Rumford Point and Hanover. One old moose went knocking on Dave Worcester's back door, and Hanover Deputy Clerk Kelly Crockett reported that a moose attempted to swing with her daughter, Victoria, as she played on the swing set in their yard. Moose and automobiles do not mix too well so be careful when traveling in moose-frequented areas. That could be most anywhere around the region.

An automobile accident occurred near Trails End Motel on Route 2 last week. The event brought out police, the fire department and ambulance service although there were no reports of injuries.

In Knights of Pythias news, area Pythians attended the John F. Burton Memorial Bowling Tournament at Bangor-Brewer Lanes in Brewer on Sunday, April 10. There were 18 teams competing.

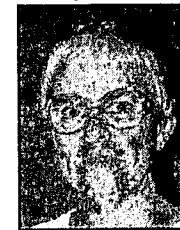

Team One from Cabot Lodge in Andover took 6th place and Cabot Team Two came in 14th. The team from Hiawasse Lodge in East Stoneham came in 11th. Teams from Boothbay and Gouldsboro took the top three positions.

Pythians from around the state attended Installation of Officers at Cabot Lodge in Andover on Monday evening. Retiring Chancellor Commander Orville Meisner was presented a certificate and lapel pin to commemorate many years as the leader of that lodge. He has stepped aside to become vice chancellor while Keith Farrington will be the chancellor commander. Other officers are Howie Roberts, Prelate; Roger Mills, secretary; David White, treasurer; Clem Worcester, Master of Works; Craig Turner, Inner Guard; and Dick Sullivan, Outer Guard. The feature event was the presentation of a 50-Year Membership Certificate and pin to Al (Boots) Harrington of Rumford. A lunch and social gathering followed the event.

Temporary repairs have been made to South Shore Road following washouts that closed that road during heavy rains and melting snow that occurred the first weekend of the month.

As you clean and do yard work around your home this spring be sure to check your house numbers. If your home is visible from the street there should be four-inch numbers posted on the front of the house. If your house is not in site of the street your house number should be near the driveway entrance. It is important that emergency workers can find you during your time of need.

The ice cream will be given out in the church parking lot after the ceremony at the cemetery. Parents will pick their children up there.

The flags have been ordered. Twenty-one calls were reported. Sally showed a book with covers of magazines from 1940 to now with flags on their cov-

At the April meeting of the Historical Society Annella Burnham showed a video on Canyon de Phelly, where the Navajo Nation began. The Anasage lived there before them, but the Navajo still live there now and plant crops and raise sheep and goats. From the wool they weave blankets that they sell to collectors. There are many interesting canyon formations like Antelope Ruins and Spider Rock. Thanks to Annella for a fine program. The society looks forward to viewing Gil Whitman's sculptures in May. The Board of Trustees also held a meeting and President Mary Billings conducted the regular business meeting.

Locke Mills

by Lorraine Larson
It seems good to have the birds and the ducks with us once more. I have also seen a heron and a pair of geese, but the geese have not stayed around so far. Maybe they would like their water just a bit more open and warmer. The ice out back of the house has been slower to melt than usual, but there has not been the swift run-off experienced in other years, and I suspect that having the dam fixed probably has something to do with that.

Things change and one of the things that has changed is the view out my back bedroom window. I do not know when it happened, but there is a new house halfway up the mountain. Either it went up really fast or I do not look out my window much. Before, I could only see a vague outline of a cottage and now it has a rather large companion across the street and a little further down and the land has been cleared around the house, so I get a good view of it. No doubt it is a harbinger of things to come as more and more people settle into the area.

As I said previously, things change and one of the disturbing changes is the attitude of the people. When I first came here people were always very helpful and kind. One tried to be tolerant and more or less it was "live and let live." When there was a problem you went to the person or they came to you and tried to discuss it and work it out. Now it seems as though it is complain, complain and get someone into as much trouble as possible.

I am referring to the uproar about the fence that was left on the pond by Greg Erskine. No one seemed to take the time to find out why it was there and what was going to be done about it. He had no intention of leaving it there, but when he tried to take it out, it was solidly enclosed in ice quite a ways down. He removed what he could, and as the ice melted he went back and got some more of it. The remainder, he figured, had to wait until the ice melted and he could get a boat into the water to remove it. I do not quite understand what there was about it that so upset a certain segment of the population. It might be somewhat of a hazard to the ducks or loons, but no one certainly seems to have much regard for them when other things take place that could harm them such as gasoline spills from boats. It might be a hazard to a passing boat, but if that is the case, it might have been a nice gesture to offer to help him remove it when it became possible.

There are enough real problems in this life without making it more difficult for people, and somehow it seems to me that the removal of a small area of fencing that is nowhere near anybody is not one of them. Anyhow I am very disappointed in the people who caused so much trouble for him.

Of course it did give a lot of publicity for a lot of people who seem to enjoy such things and helped to point out the ridiculousness of the many stupid state regulations that are smothering us. If it keeps up no one, including the complainers, will be able to enjoy anything any more, which come to think of it, I figure will be no more than they deserve.

One of the things that raise my eyebrows about a computer is when you are doing nothing on it and it is making various noises and things are moving inside that you cannot see. It certainly gives the impression that it has a mind of its own and is going about some business that it figures is none of your business. At the moment I have no Internet connection, as I was getting too many viruses, worms, and pop-ups to make it enjoyable to be on it. Ralph went in and cleaned out the viruses and worms that could be detected and plans to install more fire-walls before we connect up again, so it cannot be downloading things from there that one does not want, as it used to do. Anyhow it is weird.

Gerry Shimamura took me to Stephens Memorial Hospital last week, where I had a colonoscopy that I had been dreading having done, but thanks to a lot of prayer and a skillful doctor, it went very well and I felt a little foolish about being uneasy. It did show several diverticular, but no polyps and I was out and started for home by 10:30 a.m. Still, it is good to have it behind me, no pun intended.

The other day I went down and had some x-rays done on my left knee that has been giving me a lot of problems lately and have an appointment with an orthopedic doctor next week. It probably has to do with getting older, but the other knee is just as old as that one and it does not give me any problems, so I am having it checked out.

Debbie and Owen Brown spent some time visiting with Zolton Fodor from Hungary recently. Zolton has been here three times with various exchange groups; the first time he was here, he had his wife and two small children. Now the children are nearly grown up and Debbie and Owen keep in touch via e-mail, but it was nice to see him in person once again. Speaking of Debbie and Owen, their daughter, Kim Brown, is expected home today (Thursday) for a week's stay. It has been almost two years since she has been home and they are looking forward to seeing her.

Last Saturday, I took Ann Fitzmorris to Lewiston where we attended the Women's Ministries Convention at First Assembly of God on Hogan Road. It took me quite a while to find the place. I was all around it and I knew I was, but I just could not seem to find the right combination of streets to get me there. I kept a careful eye out as I followed another car to Main Street on the way back and I think I can find it again. When I go to Lewiston next and have some time, I am going to see if I am right. I can get lost in Rumford as far as that goes, so I am not surprised that I can get lost in a much bigger place, but it is annoying all the same, especially with the gas prices the way they are.

Anyhow the trip was worth it as we had a very good time. The speaker was a lady from California and she was, as the Northern New England district director of Women's Ministries, Bevie-Jo Marquart, described her, "a hoot." She had us in stitches a great deal of the time. We had a nice luncheon of salad, pasta and meatballs, and dessert between sessions. Those attending from Praise Assembly of God, besides Ann and I, were Dot Chopping; Pam Griffin and daughter, Alicia; Angie Dean and Hiram; Janet Farrington and daughter, Amy; and Dawn Richardson. Hiram was the best baby, as he smiled, cooed, played with his feet, chewed on his hands (he is teething) and, when he was not being handed around from one lap to another, slept his way through the day. I did not hear him fuss once. Amazing.

By the way, in a column a few weeks ago, I called Dawn's son Nick, Luke by mistake. Sorry, Nick.

Albany

by Dana & Sheila Dyke

Greetings and hello from Albany Township. Spring has finally sprung.

After the snow we kept getting during the last week or so, I was starting to get a bit discouraged that the nice weather would never arrive.

Frank and Betty Lou Gingras have returned from Florida. Such a popular destination for so many of our township's residents. Betty Lou said that they had a nice time while down south.

Construction continues on the home across the way. It's looking very good, too. It'll be great to have another family in the neighborhood.

This weekend is Passover. Church services start at 9:30 a.m.

Best wishes for a happy and safe week. God Bless and Keep.

Waterford

by Rockie Graham

This will be a short column as the day is beautiful and my time is almost over before I leave for work.

Sadie Morin and I made the Lewiston Sun on Tuesday. Friday we went to Paula's Temple Hill Boutique and had our long hair cut to send to Wigs For Kids. We now sport new short do's. It was a fun thing to do and the ultimate in recycling. Now I have to keep my neck from getting sun burnt.

A Happy Birthday goes out to David Hart Jr. His birthday is Saturday. Wish him Happy Birthday if you see him.

Monday, the 25th, is an open house at Waterford Grange 479 in observance of National Grange Week. It begins at 6:30 p.m. It is just up the hill from Melby's on Route 35.

Just a reminder that at Town Meeting an ordinance was passed to encourage recycling. Most people are doing a great job. It is appreciated. It saves money on our tax bills if we have to remove less trash because we recycled it.

Saturday night is the start of the Passover holiday. We bought matzoh and I'm looking forward to attending a Passover Seder this weekend.

I promised short and I am off to stack wood. Have a great week.

From the

Bethel Senior Citizens

The Bethel Senior Citizens Club met April 13 at the Locke Mills Legion Hall for their meeting and luncheon with 89 members and guests present. President Jane Hosterman conducted the meeting and led the salute to the flag. Reports were given by Colleen Boyd and Arlene Lowell.

The next meeting will be at the Sudbury Inn on May 11 at 11 a.m. The price of the dinner will be $7.50. The speaker will be Maine Game Warden Norman Lewis.

The raffle was won by Nancy Kimball and the door prize by Cecile Lescault.

Alan Hamilton, David Brainard, Peter Haines and Roger Conant provided the entertainment, which was enjoyed by all.

As of June 1 the officers will be: president, Nancy Mercer; vice president, Musa Brown; treasurer, Jane Hosterman; assistant treasurer, Barbara Mahler; secretary, Arlene Lowell; assistant secretary, Emma Page.

April birthdays are: Ruth Bethel, Barbara Douglass, Rose Dyer, Jane Hosterman, Paul Kimball, Doris Ouellette, Emma Page and Hope Tibbetts.

From the

Oxford Hills AARP

The Oxford Hills AARP, friends and families are participating in a spring day trip on Thursday, May 5, to the Cole Land Transportation Museum in Bangor. After a delicious, bountiful buffet lunch at Miller's Restaurant, we will head down to Augusta and have a guided tour of the Old Fort Western landmark and then on home.

We will leave the old Ames Plaza in Oxford at 7 a.m. and will be home at 6 p.m.

The cost is $48 per person and that includes the cost of the Cyr bus, the two museums and lunch.

The Cole Museum collects, preserves, and displays a cross section of Maine's land transportation equipment from which this and future generations will gain knowledge of the past. They also wish to remember, record, and display U.S. military memorabilia to forever remind this and future generations of the high price our comrades have paid to protect our freedom.

Old Fort Western, a National Historic Landmark, was built in 1754. This is America's oldest surviving wooden fort. Located on the Kennebec River, Fort Western served as a fortified storehouse during the Seven Years War and hosted Benedict Arnold's army as it marched against Quebec in 1775.

We suggest reading Maine author Kenneth Robert's enjoyable and exciting novel "Arundel" which describes Arnold's harrowing expedition to Quebec.

Please call Henrietta or Wally Taft (743-6722) to put your name on the list and then send your deposit check for $30 to Walter Taft, 1024 Gore Road, Otisfield, ME 04270. Seating is assigned in order of deposit received. Final payment of $18 is due April 28.

Change of date: The Cabbage Island trip has been changed to Aug. 25. Save Sept. 14 for a summer theater trip to Lakewood Theater in Madison.

From the

White Mountain National Forest

Spring Burning

Spring burning in the White Mountain National Forest will begin this week as ground and weather conditions become right for safe and effective burning. Don Mulise, a Zone Fire Management Officer with the national forest, is keeping a close eye on the weather and moisture levels in the various sites around the forest. "We have a site-specific burn plan for each area that describes the exact parameters and conditions we need before we'll ignite a fire. We wait for the right wind, weather, and moisture levels that will allow us to burn safely. The burn plans also spell out all the details for the kinds of equipment and the number of trained firefighters needed at the site, and spells out coordination procedures with local fire departments."

The Forest Service plans to burn areas in the New Hampshire towns of Chatham, Livermore, Albany, Easton, Milan, Berlin, and Lancaster. Burning in Maine is planned for Stoneham, Albany, Gilead, Mason, and Batchelders Grant.

The burn sites range from two to 14 acres in size. A total of about 81 acres of the 780,000-acre national forest are planned for burning this spring.

Prescribed fire is a management tool used to maintain wildlife openings in the forest to provide grassy meadows or shrubby areas — essential habitat for some forest dwellers. Wildlife openings add to the diversity and complexity of habitat in the national forest. "Periodic burning of these sites helps to maintain the open habitat for feeding, nesting, and cover for many wildlife species," says Lesley Rowse, Forest Service Wildlife Biologist.

Burning is also used to reduce the amount of accumulated forest fuels such as dead leaves, brush, and wood, reducing the potential for a wildfire. Prescribed fire can also prepare a seedbed on the forest floor for regeneration of certain tree species such as oak and pine. The burns are ignited and controlled by wildland firefighters with up-to-date training and gear. Firefighters stay prepared for assignments here and out West if needed for wildfire suppression.

Mulise notes that the burn sites are mostly well away from populated areas and will cause little if any inconvenience to national forest visitors. For more information call your local White Mountain National Forest Ranger Station.

Kancamagus Scenic Byway

Have you ever wondered about why tourists first came to New Hampshire and where they spent their time?

Join White Mountain National Forest Public Affairs Officer, Alexis Jackson at the White Mountain Attractions visitor center in Lincoln, N.H., at 9 a.m. on Saturday, April 23, to learn about the development and implementation of the Kancamagus Scenic Byway interpretative plan.

Travelers have used the "Kanc" as a place to relax and recreate since it was a path into the mountains. Learn how this history has been interpreted and visit several key sites.

Come prepared for an introduction at the visitor center and a drive across the Kanc. Walking shoes and a jacket are recommended as the tour includes a short walk.

The evening program will be held at 7 p.m. at Boyd Hall, adjacent to the Plymouth State University library. Assistant Professor of History at the New Hampshire Technical Institute, Professor Wallace, will cover the evolution of tourism in the state. Wallace said, "Efforts to attract visitors to New Hampshire were disjointed at first. Throughout much of the 19th century, people came to New Hampshire's mountains, cities and towns, and seacoast for a variety of reasons. Yet over time, 'must see' attractions lured visitors from eastern cities, and better rail service made the trip to the Granite State convenient. By the 20th century, state government aided the cause of tourism through better roads and, eventually, through promotional efforts. By the time of the Great Depression, tourism was seen as one of the few bright spots in an otherwise crippled state economy. In the years after World War II, public and private efforts to promote New Hampshire's natural and cultural resources have made the tourist industry vital for New Hampshire's economic well being. This presentation will look at the ways in which the tourism "industry" has evolved over time."

Alexis Jackson has been involved in the interpretation of the Kancamagus since 1989. She participated in the development of the interpretive plan and has been instrumental in the completion of the interpretive exhibits at the visitor center and along the byway.

R. Stuart Wallace is Assistant Professor of History at the New Hampshire Technical Institute. Wallace also teaches at the University of New Hampshire-Manchester and serves as a consultant for a variety of clients. He has a Ph.D. in Early American History from the University of New Hampshire, and he initiated the courses in New Hampshire history currently being taught at UNH. Dr. Wallace is former director of the New Hampshire Historical Society, former director of the New Hampshire Division of Historical Resources, and former director of the Christa McAuliffe Planetarium. He lives in Plymouth with his wife and two children.

These programs are part of a series of walks and talks sponsored by the USDA Forest Service during 2005 in honor of the agency's 100th anniversary. Each month spotlights a different part of the forest with a focus on the history, partnerships, and management of the White Mountain National Forest. The public is cordially invited to join in and help celebrate while learning about the national forest.

In addition to monthly events, the White Mountain National Forest will be hosting a Forest Festival on Aug. 25 at the base of the Mount Washington Auto Road. Plan on joining in this day-long celebration and enjoying the activities, booth, tours, and more.

For more information, contact the U.S. Forest Service at (603) 528-8721 (TTY (603) 528-8722).

Leave No Trace Course
Leave No Trace Trainer Course will be available on May 6 and 7, beginning at 9 a.m. on Friday and ending at 4 p.m. on Saturday at the White Mountain National Forest (off Kancamagus Highway). Deadline for registering is April 25. Tuition for the course is $80 (cost of materials only).

A LOOK BACKWARD
About a dozen people who attended Monday's Antiquarian Supper at the Bethel Historical Society dressed in clothing from an earlier day. Pictured are, front (from left): Amy Davis, Judy Haskell, Arlene Brown and Jane Hosterman. Back: George Nickerson, Randy Bennett, Jim Rose, Jan Stowell and Danna Nickerson. After the BHS event concluded, Executive Director Stan Howe, who dressed in 18th-century attire in observance of Patriot's Day, went to play his other role as Bethel selectman. From the Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

On Patriot's Day, April 18, the Bethel Historical Society paid tribute to this special holiday that is only observed in Maine and Massachusetts by featuring a patriotic presentation by Jim Rose, who appeared in 18th century clothing and delivered an explanation of the events that led to the "shot heard around the world." The outbreak of hostilities at Lexington and Concord in Massachusetts in 1775 began six years of struggle that finally ended with the British capitulation at Yorktown in 1781. Prior to this event, the society sponsored a revival of a tradition dating back to 1855, 150 years ago — the "Antiquarian Supper." This occasion, which was followed by ones in 1856 and 1857, was organized by the Bethel Farmer's Club, the first such organization in Maine, and its leading advocate, Dr. Nathaniel Tuckerman True (1812-1887), Gould Academy founder, historian, and agricultural editor. Much of what we know about these three suppers appears in columns written by Dr. True in the Oxford Democrat. They were held at members' homes and offered some of the favorite foods of those attending. Each attendee was requested to dress in clothing of an earlier era and bring an article of olden times for a "show and tell" session.

At the 2005 session, many of those attending wore a variety of vintage clothing from the 18th to the 20th century. Based on research from The Democrat, the menu offered many items from the 1850s: sage tea, doughnuts, apple sauce, johnnycake, parched corn, brownbread, bean porridge, baked beans, boiled creamed onions, steamed carrots, baked peas, hulled corn, braised beef, election cake, and pumpkin pie.

Prior to the supper, guests were welcomed by Society Director Stanley R. Howe, who turned the program over to Society Curator of Collections Randall Bennett, who reviewed some of the highlights of the news accounts of the suppers in the 1850s. The room was decorated with bunting for the occasion and framed items from the society's collection, including the silhouettes of Eleazar Twitchell and his wife Martha Mason and a family sampler of the Valentine family. In the display cases, there were the portraits of Dr. and Mrs. Mason, who attended all three events, and those of Alphin and Roxanna Twitchell, who were present at one of the suppers. Also in the cases were some items that were shown in the 1850s including the autograph books of the Masons and books on loan from Gould Academy which belonged to Rev. Daniel Gould.

Several of those attending the 2005 event brought artifacts from the past including a 1706 book on short writing published in London, a spider for the fireplace, wagon jack, molding plane, wooden box label remover, antique tuning fork, brick pointing tool, a 1939 New York World's Fair souvenir booklet, and a gun believed to have been used by early Bethel settler Amos Hastings at the Battle of Bunker Hill. Group singing of familiar melodies closed the evening just as it did in the 1850s.

The Antiquarian Supper is one of several events to highlight Bethel's agricultural tradition in celebration of the appearance of the Smithsonian Institution's "Barn Again! Celebrating an American Icon" exhibit later in the year. The exhibit is currently in Saco, and will go to Lille in June and come to Bethel in August. Bethel is one of only three sites in Maine where this exhibit, coordinated by the Maine Humanities Council, will appear.

Strings and brass at seniors' luncheon

A recently-formed band -- which does not yet have a name -- entertained last week at the Bethel Senior Citizens monthly meeting. The four-man group from the Greenwood area performed for about 85 people at the luncheon gathering, held at the Locke Mills Legion Hall. Clockwise, from top left: Roger Conant on ukulele, Peter Haines on banjo, and David Brainard on tuba; Brainard and band leader Alan Hamilton on banjo; seniors enjoying dessert and music; and Barbara Mahler listening and embroidering.

School Sports

Men's Varsity Lacrosse

Gould 14, Mt. Valley 3; April 18— Gould defeated Mt. Valley 14-3. Voight had 2 goals. Small had a goal and several assists. Schroy had 1 and several assists. Fisher had 2 goals. Marshall had a goal. The team worked together and performed strongly.

Gould 14, Oxford Hills 6; April 13— Gould defeated Oxford Hills 14-6. A great effort by the entire team with 10 different scorers.

Men's JV Lacrosse

Gould 5, Mt. Valley 0; April 18— Gould took to the home field for the first time Monday. The Husky pups were ably led by senior JV veteran Kyle Pereira as they defeated the River Men from Mt. Valley 5-0. The scoring pace was set by two "Mile" markers. Spadone led all scorers with three goals, and Martha notched his first of the season. Jonathan Parsons, the youngest of the clan, also added a goal on the day. Marty Donovan anchored the cage and earned his first shut out of the season.

Varsity Baseball

Gould 6, Fryeburg Academy 5; April 18— Gould won its second straight game, a 6-5 victory over Fryeburg, behind the strong pitching of Gary Rumley. Gary pitched the entire game striking out ten while only giving up six hits and three earned runs. Offensively the Huskies took advantage of walks, aggressive base running and timely hits by TJ Savage, Leo Leonardi and Karl Olson. They will look to make it three straight wins when they entertain the Wolverines from Bridgton Academy Thursday.

Varsity Softball

Gould 18, Fryeburg 5; April 18— Gould defeated Fryeburg Academy by a score of 18-5 yesterday. The Huskies jumped out to a big 8 run lead in the first inning. Big bats for Gould included: #6 Lizzy Healy, #14 Amelia Allen, #3 Hilary Thompson, #5 Amy Gaidis, #7 Hill Hough, #2 Nicole Gaidis, #8 Kim Trembley, #11 Heather Kelleher, #13 Hannah Gilman, and #18 Brittany Rogers. Defensively, co-captain Amy Gaidis knocked 'em down and threw 'em out all day long. Hough was tough in the outfield. Rogers, Healy, Allen, and Kelleher all made nice plays in the field. On the hill, Hill Thompson threw strikes for six innings. Co-captain Lizzy Healy came in with the bases loaded in the top of the 6th. Healy pitched out of the jam to get the save.

Women's Varsity Lacrosse

Gould 6, Brewster Academy 6; April 16— Gould played a great game on Saturday, almost beating a stronger Brewster team who had defeated them last year 14-2. Gould started the scoring after 15 minutes of play. Gould was ahead 4-2 at half with Molly Fitzgerald scoring 3 and Betsy Caraboolad 1. The defense played a great game with a strong zone and great goalkeeping by Jen Guneyli, with 17 saves total. The second half was very close with Brewster trying to make a comeback. Gould held them off until the very end but Brewster got a breakaway with 17 seconds left and came up with the tie-making goal.

Varsity Softball

Gould 16, North Yarmouth Academy 28; April 13— Lizzie Healy, Amelia Allen and Hillary Thompson led the strong Gould hitting attack with 3 hits each in the game. Gould actually out-hit NYA 15 hits to 14. Walks hurt Gould, particularly in the middle innings. Gould was ahead 10-7 after three innings, but ultimately could not hold onto the lead.

TMS students win science awards

Many sixth-, seventh-, and eighth-grade students from the Sandy Andy Regional middle schools competed in the annual Sandy Andy Valley Middle School Science Fair Thursday, April 14, from 2:30 to 7:30 p.m. in the North Dining Hall at the University of Maine at Farmington. Telstar Middle School students were among the competitors.

The students presented their science projects at their own district science fairs. Then the top five projects in each of the sixth, seventh, and eighth grades qualified to participate in the Sandy Andy Science and Invention Fair held at UMF.

Each project was evaluated by a scoring sheet that rates the different aspects of the students' work such as use of the Scientific Method of problem solving, including researching their topic and chosen problem, hypothesizing (making a prediction of what they think the answer to their selected problem is), designing and conducting controlled testing, and analyzing their results and forming a conclusion.

Other aspects evaluated include the design of the display, understanding of the topic, and relevance to everyday life.

The projects are categorized in one of three areas: Physical Science, Biological Science, and Inventions. The top scoring five projects from each grade level were awarded trophies or ribbons, compliments of Mead Westvaco.

First through third places were awarded trophies, and fourth and fifth places received ribbons. All participants received a certificate of participation.

The Sandy Andy Middle School League includes Buck-field Middle School, Dirigo Middle School, Jay Middle School, Livermore Falls Middle School, Mount Blue Middle School, Mountain Valley Middle School, Peru Elementary, and Telstar Middle School.

The 2005 Telstar Middle School winners were:

Seventh grade Biological: first, Michael MacKnight; second (tie), Evan Fessenden.

Sixth grade Biological: second, Victoria Forkus.

Eighth grade Physical Science: first, Lisa Piccirillo; second, Deagan Conrad; third, Eva Thornton.

Seventh Grade Physical Science: first, Megan Bonney; third (tie), Joel Putman; fourth (tie), Tyler Aldrich and Tommy Conroy.

Sixth grade Physical Science: first, Jeremy Putman; second, Ciara Nadeau; fourth (tie), Sam Southam.

From

Gould Academy

Grass around Gould Academy is starting to turn green and most of us are planning our summer vacations. Meanwhile, Gould alpine ski racers are turning heads around the globe with a hot streak of impressive performances.

Kamden Burke, U.S. National Champion in downhill was invited to compete in a Polar Cup race series in Norway. Only gold and silver medalists at the National Championships are invited on this trip that is organized by U.S. Ski Team. Kamden will become a #1 ranked GS skier for his age in this country as a result of a 22nd-place finish in Al, Norway. This strong result in an international competition against mostly older and much more experienced athletes will also give Kamden a top 10 World rank for his age. In SG this #2 U.S. ranked ski racer also moved into the first 10 World ranking as a result of 29th place finish in Hemsdal, Norway.

While Kamden was skiing fast and doing his best representing Gould close to the Polar Circle, other skiers wearing Gould colors achieved impressive results competing at around 10,000-foot elevations at the Rocky Mountain Trophy Series in Breckenridge and Vail, Colo.

Bump Heldman a U.S. #3 ranked skier for his age in SG placed 3rd in this event in Breckenridge. Three days later in Vail, Colo., Bump achieved a 16th-place finish that advanced him nicely in World Rankings.

Lauren McAllister, the lone female representing Gould, turned heads with a 15th-place SG finish in Breckenridge, Colo. This great result should put Lauren into 11th place ranking in this country for her age. In Vail Slalom race, Lauren scored a 17th place and moved further up in SI rankings.

Two weeks earlier Vail, Colo., hosted the U.S. National Disabled Championships and Gould's Luba Lowery blazed to 5th place in downhill, 3rd place in SG, 4th place in GS, and 3rd place in Slalom in a sitting female skier category.

Luba achieved these remarkable results in her first season racing in a sitting position. The above results further demonstrate that Gould Academy nurtures not only scholars but also athletic excellence. This hard-won excellence is not achieved without a few scars, however. While competing in her second SG race Lauren put down an even stronger run in bad visibility but unfortunately went on the wrong side of a gate and was disqualified. The following day in GS Lauren's hard crash forced her to miss a day of competition. Another racer wearing Gould colors was Canadian Mark Syrovatka who is #2 ranked in SG in that country. His fall in the second SG race forced him to sit out of two races.

From the

Rumford Point Community Athletic Association

Calling all bottles and cans. The Rumford Point Community Athletic Association will hold its annual bottle drive fundraiser on Saturday, April 23.

Players and coaches will be visiting the homes of Rumford Point and Hanover in search of every available bottle and can. If you are not planning to be home, please leave your bottles outside or bring them to the field on the Martin Road. Monies raised help with new equipment purchases and field upgrades.

The Field Cleanup Day will be held Sunday, May 1, at the field. Everyone is encouraged to bring a rake. Many hands make quick work.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

HOW DO BRIDGE LOANS WORK?

You own a home, but one day you hear that the house you have desired for years is on the market. Out of curiosity, you call a Realtor to see the inside of your dream house and you're in love! The sellers need a relatively fast sale, however, and they are not in a position to accept an offer that is contingent on the sale of your home.

A bridge loan may be the answer to your situation. Many lenders specialize in providing short-term loans for just this type of situation. The principal and interest is paid back when you complete the sale of your present home. If the market in your area is strong and there is a good possibility of selling your home quickly, then a bridge loan is a tool that could work for you. A good Realtor and a knowledgeable loan officer are the team you need to turn your dream into reality.

Before Buying a Home!

Where do you start when you are ready to buy a home? Before you begin looking for a home, you have to make some decisions. You need to decide what is important to you when purchasing your home. Before starting out on your home search it is a good idea to sit down and develop a list of what is important and what would you like in your new home. Your list could include schools, neighborhood, amenities, number of bedrooms, number of baths, a basement, a separate dining room, 2-story family room or foyer, one level ranch plan, master bedroom on the main level, special financing, seller willing to cover closing costs and the list goes on and on.

An experienced buyer real estate agent can help you through the process. There is no such thing as a perfect house, therefore once you have developed your list you should begin to prioritize it. You can prioritize into, must have, should have and would be nice to have. By having a clear understanding what you want in your new home, and the priority of those items, you will be in a much better position to decide whether you want to put an offer on a house you see and like. It is also a good idea to consider whether you want to purchase a new or pre-owned home.
